

Grenade Case study

Protein Bar brand launches a new product in the U.S. market!

Objective

As a new product in a new market, Grenade targeted consumers via Facebook lead generation ads, who were invited to order a sample.

Solution

This allowed the brand to control the ad's creative, targeting parameters and spend, whilst utilizing SoPost's technology platform for data processing, fulfillment, and analytical capabilities.

Grenade gained valuable insight throughout the campaign, the most important being an understanding of their customers' age and gender. More precisely, they were able to identify what features of the product are most important to consumers, which they are now leveraging for retargeted marketing efforts.
